My friends, we've been through a lot over the last 4 yrs and now we are just 100 days out from the election. He's going to get worse - like a cornered animal, he will lash out. We need a massive wave to defeat him. I ask you to do something every day for the next 100 days to win.

The DPA is getting a lot of focus again and it's important tool. But the real issue is a coordinated national strategy. How is the country going to get from a to b in x amount of time. On issue after issue, that's simply not happening. No planning or coordination.

Yes. It's been a shiny object and self-serving strategy. (Ventilators? Okay, we can throw work to Ford and GM in a swing state. Masks? Okay, how can we work that to our advantage...) They need to work like an ICS team - where is the need? Then address it with experts.

The single worst practice in political journalism is attributing decisions by one party to "congress."

I don't understand why this is such a difficult concept for him. But testing only tells us how many cases we have -- the US is a global virus hotspot because he told states to reopen too fast. The testing (which is less useful with delays) only tells us how bad the outbreak is.

> Donald J. Trump @realDonaldTrump
> We do more testing than any country in the World, by far, over 55 million tests. Fake News @CNN says we should do more testing. But even if we did 100 times more, they would then say it is still not enough. They are totally discredited, just want Sleepy Joe to win in November! twitter.com/tvnewshq/statu…

Lord I wonder what would have happened if Bill Barr were the AG during the civil rights marches of the 1960s. Would he have turned his guns on the protesters for equal rights instead of the people who assaulted them? pretty sure the answer is yes.

The answer is, "Hell yes." He's one of the most dangerous kinds of white supremacists as he's an institutionalist. Institutionalism is all about using the powers of the establishment to maintain normative perspectives and positions, even if that means violence. He'd be all in.

I'd add to what my friends at the ACLU just said, which is a fact:

Whether or not there is a President elected in the Electoral College, the term of the Current President WILL EXPIRE ON NOON ON JANUARY 20, 2021.

That is also in the Constitution.

If there is no President elected on January 20th, the Speaker of the House from the newly elected House of Representatives will be sworn in by John Roberts - wherever they want to be sworn in, and the Current President becomes a Trespasser to be Removed by force.

Of the many reasons why Trump's campaign to radicalize white suburbanites against Democrats is doomed to fail is that the white share of the suburban pop has dropped from 93% to 65% since 1970. Plus, the (largely college-educated) whites that remain are overwhelmingly D. So...

The Trump campaign's strategy actually seems remarkably simple right now. They have realized there are not enough rural white voters to get Trump elected again, so they're using the DHS & cops to try to make cities look dangerous and scary again. But this isn't 1970 anymore.

G. Elliott Morris @gelliottmorris · 21s
Trump got lucky in 2016. The suburbs in the Midwest are a bit more GOP than they are elsewhere (the coasts, the sunbelt) and so were willing to reluctantly vote for him and against a very unpopular and polarizing Hillary Clinton. That + the rural voters there won him the elec.

G. Elliott Morris @gelliottmorris · 21s
This time around, it looks like suburbanites won't be so kind to him. They are demographically more friendly to Democrats and generally aren't as susceptible to the "law and order" rhetoric and white flight campaigns of the mid-to-late-1900s. This simply isn't a tactic for 2020.

Seems like it might take both. And having troops on the ground makes them not even consider aggressive acts they otherwise would. Because theoretically at least, a battle could be joined.

Ambitious women make history, change the world, and win. Our campaign is full of ambitious women going all out for Joe Biden. He will make this decision, and this is clear: whoever he chooses from the very qualified options to help him win & unite the country, she'll be one too.

My mom had to go on welfare - she was an immigrant and had never worked outside the home. So we didn't have a lot of options. But really fortunately for us, MA had created ■ program --if people set aside some housing for low-income people in suburbs, they'd get subsidies.

Apartments were built in Bedford -Bedford Village- and my mom was able to S.8 vouchers to rent there. So we were able to stay in this middle class town-with excellent public schools. If those nameless public officials never did that program, I would not have been

Former vice president Joe Biden's unfounded accusation Thursday that President Trump wants to delay November's election was not only clearly over the line but also unmasks how low the supposedly moderate Biden will go to win.

Biden said in an online fundraiser, "Mark my words. I think he is going to try to kick back the election somehow." As the former chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, Biden surely knows that Trump cannot and will not delay the election. The election date is set in law; Trump cannot change it without Congress's consent. The election itself is run by the states, not the federal government, so there's no bureaucracy Trump could corral to implement any order delaying the vote. Such an order would surely be challenged in court, and it's inconceivable that the Supreme Court would uphold such a blatantly unconstitutional act.

Election rigging in depth. Reducing the power of the FEC so no election spending oversight, defunding the post office to destabilize mail in voting, reducing voting sites to keep people from voting, gerrymandering, active voter registration suppression. Now delay the election?

Rich Engstrom @rdengstrom · 1h
If there were fair elections, i.e., universal voter registration, focus on providing an easy way for everyone to cast a vote, no gerrymandering, etc, then the R's would never win another election. The demographics have caught up to them and the only way left to win is to cheat.

started measuring it —a drop of nearly 33 percent. And the already unthinkably high numbers of American workers filing for unemployment each week continues to go in the wrong direction.

The depth of economic devastation our nation is experiencing is not an act of God, it's a failure of presidential leadership. Had President Trump taken immediate and decisive action, tens of thousands of lives and millions of jobs would never have been lost.

And now, Trump is failing to effectively manage our recovery — and Republicans in Congress are refusing to give working families the help they need today. We won't get our small businesses and our workers back to full strength on denials and magical thinking — it's going to take concerned, thoughtful, and sustained leadership. Only paying attention to the stock market and ignoring science won't deliver progress. Giving big businesses even bigger deductions for three-martini lunches won't help working families keep their health care, put food on the table, or pay their rent.

We're months and months into this pandemic, and still President Trump has failed to step up and mobilize an all-out response to COVID-19 or to drive a safe and effective recovery. It's unacceptable. We need to extend meaningful and substantial relief for workers now

Over and over again, tidbits keep coming out about how Trump's entire team just did not give a shit about people in blue states dying. vanityfair.com/news/2020/07/h ...

> Most troubling of all, perhaps, was a sentiment the expert said a member of Kushner's team expressed: that because the virus had hit blue states hardest, a national plan was unnecessary and would not make sense politically. "The political folks believed that because it was going to be relegated to Democratic states, that they could blame those governors, and that would be an effective political strategy," said the expert.
> That logic may have swayed Kushner. "It was very clear that Jared was ultimately the decision maker as to what [plan] was going to come out," the expert said.

BREAKING: ultra-conservative founder of the Federalist Society Steven Calabresi calls for Trump's immediate re-impeachment in response to Trump's tweets about delaying the election.

Full article: nytimes.com/2020/07/30/opi …

> I have voted Republican in every presidential election since 1980, including voting for Donald Trump in 2016. I wrote op-eds and a law review article protesting what I believe was an unconstitutional investigation by Robert Mueller. I also wrote an op-ed opposing President Trump's impeachment.
> But I am frankly appalled by the president's recent tweet seeking to postpone the November election. Until recently, I had taken as political hyperbole the Democrats' assertion that President Trump is a fascist. But this latest tweet is fascistic and is itself grounds for the president's immediate impeachment again by the House of Representatives and his removal from office by the Senate.

UPDATE: After we published our story on DHS compiling intelligence reports about journalists' articles, the acting secretary, Chad Wolf, has halted the practice and ordered an inquiry. Statement from DHS spokesman:

Upon learning about the practice, Acting Secretary Wolf directed the DHS Intelligence & Analysis Directorate to immediately discontinue collecting information involving members of the press. In no way does the Acting Secretary condone this practice and he has immediately ordered an inquiry into the matter. The Acting Secretary is committed to ensuring that all DHS personnel uphold the principles of professionalism, impartiality and respect for civil rights and civil liberties, particularly as it relates to the exercise of First Amendment rights.

It's always projection with you people. Trump is accused of assaulting 19 women and one 13 year old. He's in numerous pictures with Epstein. And you project it onto others. Why? Because you're a lemming for Trump. The sad thing is how he laughs at all of you behind closed doors

There is NO relationship between school district in-person re-opening & recent COVID cases.

Instead, it looks like politics: in-person districts are in counties where 55% voted for Trump on average compared to 35% in districts with remote learning

Oh no, I completely understand the situation. Liberals' dislike of Trump has completely overriden any semblance of left-leaning policy, forcing the entire party to shift right-of-center, destroying opposition to right-wing politics in favor of a vacuous "return to normal".

This is like World War 2 where Americans and Soviets worked together to fights fascism. They disagreed on much but needed to save the world. You wouldn't get that because instead of fighting Trump you fight liberals, thereby aiding him. You're not anti fascist in reality at all

Todd (Antifa Franchise Consultant) @Todd_Bonzales · 6m

So what is your plan after Trump is out of the White House? What progressive goals do we focus on after this win?

Let's start with Single-Payer Healthcare. When does that happen?

People are dying today, so every day we wait the death toll rises. What's the plan?

Texas schools shouldn't reopen until positivity rate (still over 12%) is much lower; until we can effectively & quickly test & contact trace; and until public health experts say it's safe to do so. To open prematurely is to risk the lives of students, parents and educators.

Having my birthday party today, 6 ppl in friend backyard.

Normally I have anywhere from 30-40 ppl.

I am grateful to have this, I know people earlier in the quarantine couldn't even have this.

But our lives have shrunk so much. And there's def a sadness there.

Indoor bars need to be indefinitely closed and bailed out. Unfortunately, our government does not seem interested in mounting an intelligent response to covid-19.

Political intuition is, in this era, overwhelmed by political tribalism. There's movement on the margins, e.g. the Obama 08 coalition, and likely the Biden 20 coalition. But regular GOP voters will never support Dem priorities in enough numbers to effect a realignment.

Without Trump pressuring them, would GOP governors have even opened up too quickly?

Ruffini presupposes that the movement was led from the ground up — and yes, those fringe elements would be out there — but there wouldn't be a president with a gun to governors' heads.

Who gives a shit, they're still Republicans and they'll still vote accordingly because kicking down at disadvantaged and otherized groups is their true driving interest.

Ok, I can say the same about democrats. They still are fucking war mongers who literally voted down removal of troops from afghanistan. They voted against m4a and defunding the police, because kicking down at disadvantaged group and protecting the oligarchy are what they do.

Yes the rejoinder was that it wouldn't work with Biden and that rejoinder has been right. Another way to look at the last 4 months is the Trump campaign has lit millions of dollars of cash on fire with an ad strategy that has failed.

> (((Harry Enten))) @ForecasterEnten
> A lot of folks during the primary claimed that Trump and the GOP would try and turn whoever won the Dem nomination into a far-left boogeyman. To a degree, that's been true with Biden. But the glove doesn't really fit, so it's more about who Biden associates with.

This tells me that Trump himself has to OK everything personally and likely is offering specific suggestions. This explains the tone of the ads which seem directly out of his delusional view of the world.

Man, the question that elicited Trump's "executive order" answer on mail ballots was dreadful. Here's the Q and part of the A, which is full of disinfo, and makes me wonder how a NY election could be called at 7 when polls close at 9.

QUESTION: Thank you, Mr. President. And in our nation's 243 year history, there's never been a stronger push from mail-in ballots to determine a national election. Are you considering at any point issuing an executive order addressing mail-in ballots and why do you think some people are pushing it so hard?

TRUMP: Well, there's never been a push like that for mail-in ballots. And if you look at the New York Congressional race, which is a disaster, Carolyn, it's been a total disaster. They have -- they've six weeks into it now. They have no clue what's going on.

And I mean I think I can say it right here and now, I think you have to re-run that race because it's a mess. Nobody knows what's happening with the ballots and the lost ballots and the fraudulent ballots I guess.

I think you probably have to take the Carolyn Maloney race and run it over again. How can you not do this. And this is a small race with literally thousands of people -- small thousands, and it's all messed up.

You look in Paterson, New Jersey, it's all messed up. Almost every one of these. And these are small, easy to control. They should be able to do this easy. Now you're talking about like Nevada where last -- two nights ago, they -- they went out and in the darkness of night without people, without having any meetings of the Public, without having anything, they approved.

They're ridiculous. You don't have to look at signatures, you don't have to approve anything. You can have double mailings. You can have all sorts of things. Nobody's ever seen anything like it. It's a disgrace.

I mean honestly it's a disgrace. So it's a very good question. I mean the -- the mail in ballots, if you look at just some of the small -- the small places -- the small races, a congressional race in New York should be very easy.

Normally that would have been announced at 7 o'clock and it would have been down to the wire and everybody would have loved it if it was -- if it was at all complex it would have taken an extra 45 minutes or an hour and they would have announced it a little bit later.

I don't think we can do national mandate...I believe that is something that would have to go state to state as well. 10th amendment: if it not a power given to the federal government, it goes to the states.

Remember when Republicans were competitive w/Asian Americans? Now Biden leads w/them in CA 72-21-even more than his 63-30 lead among Hispanics. One reason OC has stampeded away from GOP. There's a price to letting Trump stamp the party as hostile to immigration in all forms.

> Ronald Brownstein @RonBrownstein
> More staggering findings. 81% of college+ women in CA disapprove of Trump-almost ▮ of them (79%) strongly disapprove. Same w/men: 73% disapprove, 69% strongly. Obama in 12 won 1% of his strong disapprovers in national exit poll; Bush 04 won 2% of them. ...

I'm conflicted on this. There are many underprivileged parents who would be socioeconomically devastated by not sending their children to school. If we can find a way to mitigate risk of spread substantially, wouldn't that be preferred?

Can I translate this for folks? Trump spent his cash on hand advantage on tv ads attacking Biden over the last few months. He's been outspending Biden on the air. But it didn't work. Trump is still significantly behind Biden. So he's worse off than he was a few months ago.

Vice President Biden just released a remarkable statement about his faith and values, in the face of Trump's attacks today. Worth reading in full. This is how a leader faces a bully.

Statement by Vice President Joe Biden on His Faith

Like so many people, my faith has been the bedrock foundation of my life: it's provided me comfort in moments of loss and tragedy, it's kept me grounded and humbled in times of triumph and joy. And in this moment of darkness for our country — of pain, of division, and of sickness for so many Americans — my faith has been a guiding light for me and a constant reminder of the fundamental dignity and humanity that God has bestowed upon all of us.

For President Trump to mock my faith is shameful. It's beneath the office he holds and it's beneath the dignity the American people have rightly expected and have every right to expect from their leaders. However, for the world's most powerful person to use the Bible as a prop to prop up President Trump's appearance of strength and stand for values that are decidedly unpresidential, and unAmerican, where actions are completely at odds with the values and teachings of the person he purports to believe in My faith teaches me to love my neighbor as I would myself. While President Trump tears families apart, my faith teaches me to welcome the stranger, while President Trump tears families apart. My faith teaches me to walk humbly, while President Trump targets peaceful protestors so he can walk over to a church for a photo op.

aid so many times before, we' r the soul of our nation, and I decision today to profane Go y faith in a political attack Is r of what the stakes of this fig

I'm blown away that anyone, 90 days out, with a few signatures and a fee, can cherry pick states to go onto the ballot with no ability to win - not on the ballot in enough states - just to siphon. That is a bad system.

It is what it is, when if we had leadership, it wouldn't have been what it is! Donald Trump made it that way. He made more people sick and dead than there ever should have been. And he is so cavalier about it! Let's not forget this when we all vote.

Kudos to @nytimes and @SherylNYT for publishing this article on Birx, which rectifies some of the unfair criticism aimed at her in NYT's July 18 article. This one tells the rest of the story: She's been pushing the White House and governors to do more. /1

I am not clear on why you're all in on Birx but this woman sat in the Oval Office in June and told us South Korea wasn't relevant and just dismissed Asian countries. She used Europe then because it made us look better. She's been spinning. And that is gross.

With all due respect - and Biden was right to defend his religious core - most people I talk to want to know specifics about how he gets this economy and country back together Post-covid than whether he takes Communion. And there's not been a lot of that in this campaign so far

OK, thanks. But in that transcript, she's trying to explain that outbreaks are more concentrated in some countries than in others. And she gives data: "South Korea's testing was 11 per — per 100,000, and we're at 17 per 100,000."

At any moment testing has to be magnitudes more than the outbreak. South Korea clearly did that, and the US has never been able to do that.

Exactly right. The virus is out of control in the US. Doing millions of tests now doesn't stop it. Doing hundreds of thousands of tests like South Korea did early on could have stopped it in its tracks.

more concentrated in some countries than in others. And she gives data: "South Korea's testing was 11 per — per 100,000, and we're at 17 per 100,000."

I don't think it's fair to call that dissembling.

Lord Will we are testing at millions right now? Does that make us better than South Korea right now? No. Because we started testing too late after the outbreak. I mean you can't be falling for this Trumpian stupidity.

She didn't say it made us better. A reporter made a factual claim. She was asked to address it. She checked the data and corrected the reporter. And she explained the whole context.

Trump is the one who doesn't get that our test count now reflects underlying failure. Not Birx.

What are you talking about? There is no difference in how to fight the virus between Asia and Europe. We could have been South Korea, she dismisses that outright. She's dissembling in doing so. I think the problem here is you bought her spin. And now you're rationalizing.

There's a long discussion to be had about how diffuse the outbreaks were in various countries. But re tests, we should have been on the ball as South Korea was. I just don't fault her, any more than Fauci, for not saying that while next to Trump. She has steadily pushed testing.

continue to use covert and overt influence measures in their attempts to sway U.S. voters' preferences and perspectives, shift U.S. policies, increase discord in the United States, and undermine the American people's confidence in our democratic process. They may also seek to compromise our election infrastructure for a range of possible purposes, such as interfering with the voting process, stealing sensitive data, or calling into question the validity of the election results. However, it would be difficult for our adversaries to interfere with or manipulate voting results at scale.

Many foreign actors have a preference for who wins the election, which they express through a range of overt and private statements; covert influence efforts are rarer. We are primarily concerned about the

- RUSSIA – We assess that Russia is using a range of measures to primarily denigrate former Vice President Biden and what it sees as an anti-Russia "establishment." This is consistent with Moscow's public criticism of him when he was Vice President for his role in the Obama Administration's policies on Ukraine and its support for the anti-Putin opposition inside Russia. For example, pro-Russia Ukrainian parliamentarian Andriy Derkach is spreading claims about corruption – including through publicizing leaked phone calls – to undermine former Vice President Biden's candidacy and the Democratic Party. Some Kremlin-linked actors are also seeking to boost President Trump's candidacy on social media and Russian

I like how less than 90 days Trump issues an executive order to protect preexisting condition, which is actually in the ACA, which is still the law (so his exec order is meaningless). It's just he's trying to get rid of the ACA and preexisting conditions in Court.

Friendly advice from a 2020 ally to Democrats: You need to make sure Trump and the GOP own the failure of the coronavirus legislation. As jobs don't come back, schools don't open, and testing remains inadequate--that needs to be, as it should be, put squarely on the GOP's back.

GOP Sen. Ben Sasse (Neb.) says Trump is violating the Constitution:

"President Trump does not have the power to unilaterally rewrite the payroll tax law. Under the Constitution, that power belongs to the American people acting through their members of Congress."

Sasse Criticizes Lawmaking by Executive Order

U.S. Senator Ben Sasse, a member of both the Senate Judiciary and Finance Committees, issued the following statement on legislating by executive orders:

"The pen-and-phone theory of executive lawmaking is unconstitutional crap. President Obama did not have the power to unilaterally rewrite immigration law with DACA, and President Trump does not have the power to unilaterally rewrite the payroll tax law. Under the Constitution, that power belongs to the American people acting through their members of Congress."

Of course there's a great deal of hardship; many businesses have already gone under, and the end of unemployment supplements will mean disaster for many. But don't say that America was incapable of dealing with this; last I heard, NYC was part of America 5/

America's uniquely disastrous coronavirus response was about politics — a vicious incompetent in the White House and a ruling party that can't and won't do actual policy. With decent leadership Americans could have risen to the occasion 6/

If there was political genius at work he would have made the illegal memorandum (it wasn't even an EO) something outrageous like $5000 for every family. Why not? It's never going to happen anyway. And do it with working families around you, not multimillionaires.

Jonathan Vankin @jonvankin · 28m
Exactly. He literally said that he could have done $600 but thought $400 was better. He ordered your unemployment benefits slashed by a third in the middle of the worst financial crisis in 90 years, and worst health crisis in more than 100. Genius!

Sasha Stone @AwardsDaily · 27m
This is a really bizarre conversation. No one ever said he was a genius. No one ever applauded his executive orders and yet this entire convo are three people convincing themselves of what they already think while totally missing the original point.

What I see is a bubble on the left that is a circular feedback loop of telling ourselves what we want to hear. Having conversations about this on twitter is difficult but I can see public opinion shifting...it isn't going to be enough just to keep attacking Trump.

They're trying to change history—don't let them. In the chaotic atmosphere of 2020, the Wayback Machine is a crucial resource in the fight against disinformation, and now more than ever we need your help. Right now we're preserving history as it unfolds, keeping track of who's saying what and when—all without charging for access, selling user data, or running ads. Instead, we rely on the generosity of individuals to help us keep the record straight.

Right now, the Internet Archive (which runs this project) has a 2-to-1 Matching Gift Campaign, tripling the impact of every donation. If you find our public record useful, please chip in.

"Seems"

Charlotte Clymer @cmclymer · 2h

It's pretty common phrasing. I say "seems" all the time when I mean it's obvious. It ain't that deep.

Angelina Rosalina @AngelaRose81 · 1h

My point is it doesn't seem like there is a lot of sexism. There is a lot of sexism.

Charlotte Clymer @cmclymer · 1h

Right, and I'm saying that "seems" is common phrasing to indicate a clear reality, even if that's not the literal definition. It's often now a filler word, which is how Neera meant it.

Just won trivia night at our local pizza place w/ @lily_cunningham — partly because I was the only person here to know "Sabotage" was on "Ill Communication" (!!??!!)

Highlight of my week.

And I have a book dropping tomorrow!!!

If people had worn masks and stayed home and socially distanced whenever they left the house we would have college football this year. Some of us made those sacrifices. Others said the virus was fake news and ignored scientists. Those people are why we are still in this mess.

The only thing we can think of how my husband got the virus was being unmasked at a park and a jogger running close to him. So please stop with this nonscientific stuff. Masks outside are as important around other people as inside. The protesters wore masks.

This is such a statement about Joe Biden -- always the bigger person, the opposite of the petty monstrosity in the Oval Office right now.
Another demonstration of Biden's character.

.@KamalaHarris will be a great partner to @JoeBiden in making our government a powerful force for good in the fight for social, racial, and economic justice.

I've known Kamala Harris for a long time -- from when she took on Wall Street during the financial crisis as Attorney General to working for the people every day as a United States Senator. Throughout her career, she has been unafraid, and an inspiration to millions of women who see themselves in her. As our vice presidential nominee, Kamala is making history.

She'll be a great partner to Joe Biden in making our government a powerful force for good in the fight for social, racial, and economic justice. I will do everything I can to ensure Joe Biden and Kamala Harris are elected in November so they can get big things done for the American people starting January 2021. And I'm SO looking forward to seeing Kamala take on Mike Pence on the debate stage. Go Kamala!

I've known Senator @KamalaHarris for a long time. She is more than prepared for the job. She's spent her career defending our Constitution and fighting for folks who need a fair shake. This is a good day for our country. Now let's go win this thing.

Choosing a vice president is the first important decision a president makes. When you're in the Oval Office, weighing the toughest issues, and the choice you make will affect the lives and livelihoods of the entire country - you need someone with you who's got the judgment and the character to make the right call. Someone whose focus goes beyond self-interest to consider the lives and prospects of others.

Joe Biden nailed this decision. By choosing Senator Kamala Harris as America's next vice president, he's underscored his own judgment and character. Reality shows us that these attributes are not optional in a president. They're requirements of the job. And now Joe has an ideal partner to help him tackle the very real challenges America faces right now and in the years ahead.

I've known Senator Harris for a long time. She is more than prepared for the job. She's spent her career defending our Constitution and fighting for folks who need a fair shake. Her own life story is one that I and so many others can see ourselves in, a story that says that no matter where you come from, what you look like, how you worship, or who you love, there's a place for you here. It's a fundamentally American perspective, one that's led us out of the hardest times before. And it's a perspective we can all rally behind right now.

Michelle and I couldn't be more thrilled for Kamala, Doug, Cole, and Ella. This is a good day for our country. Now let's go win this thing.

Me too, Neera! Your quote in The Atlantic piece today was powerful.

> Neera Tanden, the president of the Center for American Progress, says that Biden's selection of a half-Indian, half-Jamaican woman shows that Biden is running a very different campaign than Donald Trump. "In the selection of a vice president, he's created a deep contrast between the pettiest of men and a man who obviously has no pettiness within him," Tanden told me, minutes after Harris was announced

Remember, Trump actually made some of his anti-Semitic statements in front of the Republican Jewish Coalition, who now claim Kamala doesn't "stand with" Jews! "You're not going to support me because I don't want your money." "That's okay, you want to control your own politician."

New York Times reporter Jim Tankersley reflects on a big thing he says he and his colleagues in the press got wrong in 2016. washingtonpost.com/politics/2020/ … Via @froomkin. Every journalist who does this makes it easier for the next.

> "We missed a big and important story about Black workers and their economic struggles and how it was going to affect their decision to vote or not. But we also misled our audiences by showing them a picture of the working class that was not complete and allowed politicians to distort it," Tankersley explained in a telephone interview. "The sad and unfortunate product of that was we perpetuated this myth that working-class White men are suffering alone in America and do not have anything in common with these other struggling workers. The idea that women, immigrants or workers of color are in competition with them for prosperity is wrong. It's not what American history shows us."

Absolutely. Whatever it takes.

If the Biden-Harris administration steps over these four years of near lawless corruption, this country will never be righted on the path to its promise.

Today, @JoeBiden called for a national mask mandate.

I couldn't agree more.

It would save many lives — and save the economy, too.

People who don't understand the anger of not taking a stand against fascism need to work at that too. You think the betrayals are one way. They are not. People who help Trump win are betraying others as well. And because it's a binary choice, that is precisely what is happening.

Telling detail from @reidepstein: An elderly man in western Pennsylvania who has voted Republican in numerous presidential elections will vote for Biden. He heard Trump's claim that Biden would defund the police, checked it out, and learned it's a lie:

nytimes.com/2020/08/16/us/ ...

> Ralph Perkins, an 89-year-old retired mining engineer from Canonsburg, Pa., 20 miles southwest of Pittsburgh, said he was likely to vote for Mr. Biden after casting a ballot for every Republican presidential nominee since Dwight D. Eisenhower in 1952.
> The one thing that could lead him to vote a second time for Mr. Trump, Mr. Perkins said, would be if Mr. Biden supported defunding the police. But after calling the local Washington County Democratic chairman, Ben Bright, Mr. Perkins said his fears were allayed.
> "Biden, I think he's very much superior to Trump," Mr. Perkins said. "Do I think he's perfect? I'm not head over heels for him, but I think he's fine."

This article is both absurd and gross. It creates euphemisms for the enslavement of native people.

I love the fact that people who rationalize barbarity in the name of religion create purity tests for everyone else.

Friends, there have been 5 polls in the last 24 hours. Best to average them. Biden is ahead. But Trump is like a trapped animal, and trapped animals are very, very dangerous.

Everyone expects poll tightening. I don't.

I'm not predicting they won't, I'm saying it shouldn't be taken as a given in a year that has too many firsts, including virtual conventions.

"The polls always tighten" isn't sufficient because precedents don't include this pandemic.

I genuinely don't understand why you're equating what people say when they don't have enough evidence for a claim to what they say when there's a lot of evidence of a claim. Early in a pandemic is very different from later. They didn't know it was airborne. Now we do.

It's not about that, though. That is understandable. It's that they never explained this. They never said why they were wrong. Nobody. So many people and straight from ridiculing mask wearers for ignoring science to ridiculing non-mask wearers for ignoring science.

And then they pretend like it never happened! Journalists, politicians, "experts". Just obnoxious moral preening and lecturing people about not listening to science, all while pretending like they didn't pull a complete 180. No wonder people don't trust them.

Of course it's good to have Republicans telling other Republicans not to vote for Trump. If we are have to have Biden as nominee, we might as well get this benefit from it.

Remember, the goal of this election is to win a mandate and pull the senate. You can do that is giving Republicans and conservative-leaning independents a permission structure to vote against Trump. Hearing Republicans state why they are voting against Trump and for Biden helps.

As we prepare to watch virtual #DNCC tonight, let's remember this was a very responsible decision. 4 big factors to increase #COVID19 transmission are all present at a big convention:

✓Crowds ✓Indoors
✓Prolonged time
✓Shouting + singing

This was the smart thing to do. 1/2

And just as it's responsible to hold conventions virtually, we must allow people to vote by mail from home. Polling places = crowds indoors, sometimes for a long time.

Public health should not be political, even when it's about things as political as voting + conventions. 2/2

(U) The Committee was unable to reliably determine why Manafort shared sensitive internal polling data or Campaign strategy with Kilimnik. Manafort and Gates both claimed that it was part of an effort to resolve past business disputes and obtain new work with their past Russian and Ukrainian clients by showcasing Manafort's success.

(U) The Committee obtained some information suggesting Kilimnik may have been connected to the GRU's hack and leak operation targeting the 2016 U.S. election.

The committee was still actively pursuing the investigation early this year. It subpoenaed EMIN AGALAROV during his visit to NYC on Feb. 20.

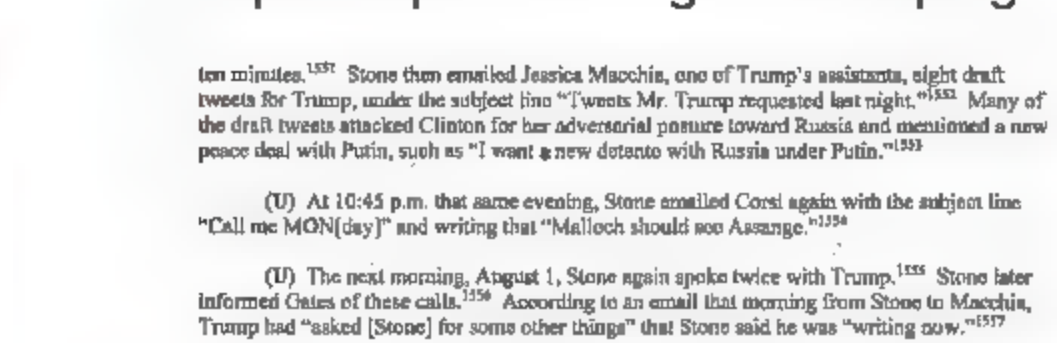
Senate report indicated Roger Stone drafted pro-Russia tweets for Trump at Trump's request during the campaign.



ten minutes.[1557] Stone then emailed Jessica Macchia, one of Trump's assistants, eight draft tweets for Trump, under the subject line "Tweets Mr. Trump requested last night."[1552] Many of the draft tweets attacked Clinton for her adversarial posture toward Russia and mentioned a new peace deal with Putin, such as "I want a new detente with Russia under Putin."[1553]

(U) At 10:45 p.m. that same evening, Stone emailed Corsi again with the subject line "Call me MON[day]" and writing that "Malloch should see Assange."[1554]

(U) The next morning, August 1, Stone again spoke twice with Trump.[1555] Stone later informed Gates of these calls.[1556] According to an email that morning from Stone to Macchia, Trump had "asked [Stone] for some other things" that Stone said he was "writing now."[1557]

Per Senate Intellgence Committee, Konstantin KILIMNIK — who Manafort provided internal Trump campaign polling data to — is "a Russian intelligence officer."

(U) At the outset of his work for the Ukrainian oligarchs and for Deripaska, Manafort hired and worked increasingly closely with a Russian national, Konstantin Kilimnik. [redacted] a Russian intelligence officer. Kilimnik quickly became an integral part of Manafort's operations in Ukraine and Russia, serving as Manafort's primary liaison to Deripaska and eventually managing Manafort's office in Kyiv. Kilimnik and Manafort formed a close and lasting relationship that would endure to the 2016 U.S. elections and beyond.

The most charitable interpretation of Mueller's poor handling of the Russia investigation is that Trump effectively bullied him.
I believe history will judge his failure harshly.

Also important to note that these emails were strategically released to distract from the fact that Trump admitted to sexual assault on tape, as well as from the numerous allegations that followed. Journalists are rewarding this malfeasance every time they publish an email.

This is a start. But we still need to reverse all the damage, fully fund @USPS, & investigate DeJoy's conflicts. And we need to keep our eyes on DeJoy so he keeps his promise & doesn't find new ways to dismantle the USPS.

I'll be watching DeJoy's actions – not just his words.

Postmaster General Louis DeJoy Statement

WASHINGTON, DC — Postmaster General Louis DeJoy issued the following statement today:

"The United States Postal Service will play a critical role this year in delivering election mail for millions of voters across the country. There has been a lot of discussion recently about whether the Postal Service is ready, willing and able ■ meet this challenge.

I want to make a few things clear:

The Postal Service is ready today ■ handle whatever volume of election mail it receives this fall. Even with the challenges of keeping our employees and customers safe and healthy as they operate amid a pandemic, we will deliver the nation's election mail on time and within our well-established service standards. The American public should know that this is our number one priority between now and election day. The 630,000 dedicated women and men of the Postal Service are committed, ready and proud to meet this sacred duty.

I am announcing today the expansion of our current leadership taskforce on election mail ■ enhance our ongoing work and partnership with state and local election officials in jurisdictions throughout the country. Leaders of our postal unions and management associations have committed to joining this taskforce to ensure strong coordination throughout our organization. Because of the unprecedented demands of the 2020 election, this taskforce will help ensure that election officials and voters are well informed and fully supported by the Postal Service.

I came to the Postal Service to make changes to secure the success of this organization and its long-term sustainability. I believe significant reforms are essential to that objective, and work toward those reforms will commence after the election. In the meantime, there are some longstanding operational initiatives

NEWS: 28.9 million Americans tuned in to @DemConvention last night across TV & digital platforms, up from 2016 & shattering the previous record for digital streams, which totaled 10.2m even as numbers still come in.

We are producing a digital convention, and people are watching.

My theory is that in the age of hyper-partisanship, turnout is the swing vote. To actually switch parties would violate people's identities, so instead when they know their team's candidate is bad they just stay home.

> Matthew Yglesias @mattyglesias

This view is popular but it's completely wrong. Roughly 90% of the change from 2012 to 2016 and 2016 to 2018 was people changing their minds, not changes in turnout.

Unreasonable would be defending a murderer who also expanded fracking, wars, the prison industrial complex, deported more immigrants than any other admin, amongst others. Get mad at Obama, he did it. Not the guy reminding you of reality.

If you were confused, no worries!

Convention rules require roll call & nominations for every candidate that passes the delegate threshold.

I was asked to 2nd the nom for Sen. Sanders for roll call.

I extend my deepest congratulations to @JoeBiden - let's go win in November. 🇺🇸

There are 35k more Republicans than Democrats in Sarasota.

13k more Dems votes by mail. And turnout was basically even between the two parties.

And reminder: We came within 221 votes of winning here in 2008 (not that I obsessed about Sarasota or anything that cycle)

Hillary Clinton warned us repeatedly what would happen, she was mocked over it by many, and then what she said would happen did happen.

She was right all along. It's that simple.

Yes, qualifications and history precedent notwithstanding, she is INCENDIARY - like it or not. Anything that even remotely reminds people of what they DIDN'T vote for in 2016 m should not be relived here. Save it for another time....

You'll alienate people on the bubble of whom there are TONS. Do you really want to take a chance on what promises to be a a very thin/CRITICAL margin just to have a feel good moment? I like HRC. I voted for her, but she is too incendiary in an otherwise existential moment.

There's still a lot we don't know. But: last year, Navalny was poisoned in jail. Three years ago, government-backed thugs sprayed him with "brilliant green," which resulted in a chemical burn to one of his eyes.

So, which of these things have actually helped Americans again? Example, moving the American Embassy to Jerusalem. That helps me how?

Shane Clephane @ShaneClephane · 2h

The last 3 presidents lied during the primaries about moving the Embassy to Jerusalem. Also, lied about the border wall. Record jobs for Hispanics & blacks. Record employment in the last 2 months even under the pandemic. There's a few things. Trumps helping your retirement

2 months ago, William Barr launched a haphazard effort to get rid of U.S. attorney Geoffrey Berman and also prevent his deputy, Audrey Strauss, from taking over.

Berman fought it and made sure Strauss got the acting job.

Today, Strauss indicts Trump's former campaign CEO.

Barr's stated reason for pushing Berman out quickly -- that they wanted to install a new, permanent nominee in Jay Clayton -- never made sense.

Berman could have served through confirmation, but Barr wanted his own acting U.S. attorney.

He didn't get it. And now this happens.

4 63 337

Aaron Blake @AaronBlake · 17m
The prevailing theory among critics was that Barr might have wanted Berman out because SDNY was investigating Giuliani.

Instead, a different Trump adviser gets indicted.

22 87 854

Simon Schama @simon_schama · 13m

well I think you're wrong because you have a narrow notion of what oratory is - first rule, be true to yourself. It was in fact a master class in oratory - complete with exordium and peroration. The fact that it didnt sound like oratory is the whole point.

One could write a very good book (or at least longform mag piece) tracing the decline of America through the decline of the "History" Channel.

Also, vote early. If you've made up your mind and have your ballot, mail it in September even.

And take a photo of your ballot before you mail it for evidence.

Great advice. And follow the directions very closely. Mail ballots get thrown out at higher rates because people don't follow the directions.

And the end result of this idiocy is that tens (hundreds?) of thousands of students who traveled to colleges and universities and became sick will be sent home to reinfect their communities.

Just in: John Brennan's spokesman says Brennan was interviewed earlier today by John Durham, who told Brennan "that he is not a subject or a target of a criminal investigation and that he is only a witness to events that are under review." Full statement:

Earlier today former CIA Director John Brennan was interviewed by US Attorney John Durham on issues related to Russia's interference in the 2016 U.S. presidential election. Brennan was informed by Mr. Durham that he is not a subject or a target of a criminal investigation and that he is only a witness to events that are under review. The interview was conducted at CIA headquarters and lasted eight hours.

Brennan welcomed the opportunity to answer Mr. Durham's questions related to a wide range of intelligence-related activities undertaken by CIA before the November 2016 presidential election as well as the Intelligence Community Assessment (ICA) published in early January 2017. Brennan provided details on the efforts made by the Intelligence Community to understand and disrupt the actions

Brennan questioned why the analytic tradecraft and the findings of the ICA are being scrutinized by the Department of Justice, especially since they have been validated by the Mueller Report as well as the bipartisan Senate Select Committee on Intelligence Review.

Brennan also told Mr. Durham that the repeated efforts of Donald Trump and William Barr to politicize Mr. Durham's work have been appalling and have tarnished the independence and integrity of the Department of Justice, making it very difficult for Department of Justice professionals to carry out their responsibilities. It is Brennan's fervent hope that the results of the Durham review will be apolitical and not influenced by personal or partisan agendas.

There has been minimal spread at protests because people are wearing masks. People need to wear masks. It's that basic.

What videos are you watching? Mask wearing might be 50%, correct mask wearing closer to a third(shouting with your mask around your neck is very, very bad).

Bullshit. You can't trust "science" from people who are scared to lose their jobs if they report the "wrong" result. Health experts supported the protests, some genuinely, some out of concern for their livelihood.

Gruntled @NeverTr74704466 · 8m

Also, no one can look at any videos of these protests and see safety being practiced. Some people are wearing masks. Others are not. Many others have them around their necks and are shouting. There's no social distancing, which renders the masks not very useful.

Not only that, blocking sock puppet accounts lowers their Twitter ranking, so fewer people see the garbage.

Arguing with it amplifies it.

Blocking is literally a public service.

Also, Haley and Tim Scott are the 2 most impressive from a very short list of names that aren't really from the Trump wing of the party, and I don't know why you stack them both on a Monday. Gonna be a very Trumpy convention.

Also, between governors who wouldn't want to be associated with Trump (e.g. Charlie Baker) and those who have big COVID problems, the lack of big-name governors is noteworthy. You've got Reynolds and Noem (not exactly big names), but no DeSantis, DeWine, Kemp, Abbott.

my major learning point is simply that from election to election they are different people. Swings come in and drop out of the electorate. This is more true than 'I changed my mind' voters.

Mobilize them on 2020 issues not 2012 issues.

Three and a half years of "maybe Trump will swap Pence for Haley" takes will come to an end this morning as the Trump-Pence ticket is re-nominated. If there were still DC cocktail parties, people at them would be devastated.

#GOP themes: "cancel culture," "riots in cities," "socialism," "anarchy." @JoeBiden doesn't evoke ANY of those things to most voters. So #Trump must convince them that Joe's just a puppet. The tactical response? Biden has to step up and step out as a BIG, forceful personality.

A senior GOP strategist, who is not a "Never Trumper" and often gives the president the benefit of the doubt, tells me: "If what we just heard is a preview of the President's message for the week, he loses and we lose. We can kiss the Senate goodbye if the tone doesn't change."

Great Q&A with @ChrisMurphyCT. Never thought of this way that GOP Senators feel their fortunes tied to Trump's: "They believe if they broke with him, he'd be more unpopular, and they wouldn't be rewarded for that break. They would be punished for it."

Many journalists/pundits appear caught up in the politics of this whole thing (what the GOP is strategically trying to do with certain speeches, if a particular speaker did well, etc.) vs pointing out the parade of lies and deception and hypocrisy of the RNC's programming.

This is why he lies with abandon. Because he knows some reporters enjoy theater criticism and strategery over the sheer repetitiveness of accurately describing the many lies.

The New York Times has apparently decided the delicate way to refer to open law-breaking at the RNC is "blurring the lines between government and politics."

This is wildly insufficient - it makes Trump's decision sound like a bold messaging gamble.

Do you think people outside the beltway care about federal government email protocols?

Apparently they do if that gets wall to wall coverage. Maybe blatant lawbreaking for political benefit should too.

I dont know about that. I wrote it. Ive spent so much time writing about campaign finance violations, ethics issues, etc and I oftentimes find that people think the entire govt is crooked and dont care. I have a VERY low threshold for this. And I find that my outrage isnt matched

I am not justifying it. I'd argue that myself & other political journalists consistently & thoroughly report on when the Trump admin & other govt officials flout the law/ throw ethics out the window. But we're also in an environment where voters will brush it aside as a non-issue

In interviews, Biden has response: He doesn't want to "defund police," Trump's budgets would have done just that. But that message isn't in TV ads, which are 99% covid. And punditry in June was wrong about how unrest would play. (It hurt Trump.)

This feels asymmetrical? Democratic norm-busting (like Loretta Lynch talking with Bill Clinton before FBI probe of emails was closed) seen as legitimate reason to freak out; Trump norm-busting offends effete liberals, but not Blue Collar Diner Man.

This is false.

While President Trump has paid lip service to protecting people who would have pre-existing medical conditions he is currently trying to dismantle the Affordable Care Act. The federal law requires health insurers to cover people with pre-existing medical conditions and not charge them more when they have an expensive medical condition.

The cop Pence claimed was killed in an Oakland riot so as to make it sound like lawless commies somehow associated with "dangerous" Joe Biden are about to destroy America was actually shot by a far-right extremist.

The nation's physicians, here the American Medical Association, are saying the same thing. None of this has any scientific justification. 2/

The following statement is attributable to:
Susan R. Bailey, M.D.
President, American Medical Association

"Months into this pandemic, we know COVID-19 is spread by asymptomatic people. Suggesting that people without symptoms, who have known exposure to COVID-positive individuals, do not need testing is a recipe for community spread and more spikes in coronavirus. When the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) updates a guidance the agency should provide a rationale for the change. We urge CDC and the Department of Health and Human Services to release the scientific justification for this change in testing guidelines."

Democratic nominee presents himself in the five months before the presidential election, emphasizing calm and competence as a contrast to a mercurial president.

It is an approach that carries the risk of being drowned out by the much louder, more persistent voice of Trump. On one of the most profound weekends the nation has seen, with violence in dozens of cities, Biden was out of wide public view.

4 22 133

Dave Weigel @daveweigel · 5m

What happened next: liberal cities taking steps to mollify protesters (from police budget reduction to statue removal). Two months later the "Democrat cities can't control streets" storyline has been sold in ads, and any unrest can be portrayed as Dem leaders blowing it. (2/2)

6 7 40

Dave Weigel @daveweigel · 4m

Trump's still president and blaming cities for unrest. Biden's still not president and keeps releasing "peaceful protests, not violence" statements. Basically any group of people with bricks can change the storyline, but the candidates can't.

A stunning reminder from @jaketapper just now on CNN: "Just since the Republican convention began, we have had more losses due to this virus than were lost due to 9/11."

Between the RNC opening on Monday and 5pm today, 3,688 Americans have lost their lives to coronavirus.

Now that team Trump has showed its hand here, it'll be interesting to see how Biden reacts. Do you go on air defending against the 'defund police' attack, for ex? Biden's been served well by inaction, but that's in part because Team Trump hasn't done much requiring a response

50 21 143

Nate Cohn @Nate_Cohn · 29m

Usually, the argument against responding is that you don't want to elevate the criticism, esp if it's not credible. OTOH, the RNC just spent four days suggesting that you support something you oppose, so maybe it's already high profile. It'll be interesting to see the call here

22 13 91

Nate Cohn @Nate_Cohn · 22m

I see many of you think Biden has responded to this, which is literally true. But this isn't a high school debate, where biden 'responds' simply by contradicting it. the RNC spent several days elevating a claim; a couple of interviews doesn't undo the damage, if there was damage

There have been plenty of outbreaks at outdoor social gatherings where people are close together and not wearing masks. Kids having beach parties have led to spread.

The problem with the RNC sending a message that COVID is over is not just that COVID isn't over (1,100 deaths were reported today) but also that there's very much still time for another resurgence by Nov. 3, and such a resurgence is more likely if people think it's over.

Its funny how they haven't read a single history book. How once the guillotining starts, it rarely stops until it gets to them. Privilege, it turns out, is in the eye of the person with the guillotine.

One day it will finally occur to these people that the tactics of constant attack helps them lose. Politics is about addition not subtraction. But in the meantime they will blame everyone but themselves for losing.

This is how a pro-Bernie blogger describes the difference between the #RNC2020 and the DNC:

"One gigantic win for the RNC is that it never looked like a Zoom call... How is it possible that the DNC organizers don't realize that people are exhausted by Zoom?"

Why did the DNC draw roughly 25% more viewers than the RNC then?

Because they did not include OAN - which a lot of folks watched and they did not include streaming. A large % of republicans avoid network news (even Fox)

The teen with the AR-15 style rifle in Kenosha was defending himself from a plastic bag when he killed his first victim, according to a criminal complaint obtained by @thedailybeast thedailybeast.com/teen-vigilante …

> According to a criminal complaint, obtained by The Daily Beast, Rittenhouse was walking down the road alongside a reporter at about 11:45 p.m. when a protester, Joseph Rosenbaum, approached and tried to "engage" the armed teen. Rittenhouse did a "juke" move and started running away, the reporter—identified as Richard McGinnis but apparently a reference to Daily Caller reporter Richie McGinniss—told investigators.
> As Rittenhouse ran across a parking lot, Rosenbaum followed him and threw an object, according to videos reviewed by investigators. "The object does not hit [Rittenhouse] and a second video shows, based on where the object landed, that it was a plastic bag," the complaint says. "Rosenbaum appears to be unarmed for the duration of this video."
> Moments later, videos captured a loud bang and a male shouting, "Fuck you!" Another four shots were heard and Rosenbaum was seen falling to the ground.
> McGinniss told investigators that he didn't hear the pair exchange any words but he believed Rosenbaum, who was unarmed, was trying to grab Rittenhouse's gun when he was shot. Rosenbaum died from multiple gunshots that hit his right groin, left hand, left thigh, and back, perforating his right lung and liver, according to the Milwaukee Medical Examiner's Office.

This seems like a few random people. But making fake guillotines for anybody is morally repugnant.

One of the most ridiculous aspects of the last few years is the notion that support for one universal health care plan over another justifies abuse. It does not.

We're a dozen major news cycles away from the election. Given the impact of the last two dozen, the default take should be these cycles have a null effect until proven otherwise. I realize this makes for boring election takes, but in terms of polling, it's been a boring election.

Only Medicare for all is truly universal healthcare. So quit lying about supporting UH.

This is false. Most countries with universal health care in fact do not have single payer systems. I'm sorry you've bought into a lie. But it remains a lie.

Mike Gaeta @MaestroGaeta · 49m

I'm aware. Countries have become more market based because of neoliberalism and the shift towards "free markets." Still remains only way 2 secure it and keep it permanent is through govt intervention. Ideally Medicare for all. But if you're cool with what Germany has then say it

One of the most ridiculous aspects of the last few years is the notion that support for one universal health care plan over another justifies abuse. It does not.

Yes, those pesky little historical facts (which show how societies with huge wealth gaps between classes often devolve into tyranny and violence, hence the symbolic importance of the guillotine, here).

Here's another historical fact: the guillotines were eventually used against thousands of supporters of the Revolution. Because they were not pure enough. Once they pull out the guillotine, no guarantee you'll never be its victim.

This tweet is no different from MAGAs attachment to falsehoods. In fact most countries that have universal health care do not have single payer. See e.g. Germany with private not for profit insurance and all payer rate setting. Not single payer at all.

My favorite plan is the German model. That is simply a different version of universal health care. Medicare extra is also universal, which is the CAP plan.

Or, just pretend that wanting an actual single-payer form of healthcare leads to people being guillotined in Central Park.

That's absurd. Wanting single payer does not bring about guillotines. What brings about guillotines is people bringing out guillotines which is what this tweet discourse all started with.

College Republicans, a GOP candidate, and conservative media are all proudly supporting a teenager who shot and killed Black Lives Matter protesters.

The fact that elements of one political party openly support extrajudicial killings is terrifying, and will only lead to more.

Kyle Whitmire
@WarOnDumb

The GOP nominee for the Alabama 2nd and almost certainly the November winner, Barry Moore, just shared this on his Facebook page.

Republicans United is raising funds for Kenosha protest shooter Kyle Rittenhouse. The group told an @azcentral reporter "they do not speak to journalists with pronouns on their Twitter page" and to "get a real job."

Just talked to an attendee at a local GOP event in Yavapai County, Arizona today who was asked by someone if they wanted "to help the Republican Party" and then given the opportunity to sign a petition to put Kanye West on the ballot.

BIDEN says in a new statement: "Shooting in the streets of a great American city is unacceptable. I condemn this violence unequivocally. I condemn violence of every kind by anyone, whether on the left or the right. And I challenge Donald Trump to do the same."

the Deadly Violence in Portland

The deadly violence we saw overnight in Portland is unacceptable. Shooting in the streets of a great American city is unacceptable. I condemn this violence unequivocally. I condemn violence of every kind by anyone, whether on the left or the right. And I challenge Donald Trump to do the same. It does not matter if you find the political views of your opponents abhorrent. any loss of life is a tragedy. Today there is another family grieving in America, and Jill and I offer our deepest condolences.

We must not become a country at war with ourselves. A country that accepts the killing of fellow Americans who do not agree with you. A flames of hate and division in our society and using the politics of fear to whip up his supporters? He is recklessly encouraging violence. He may believe tweeting about law and order makes him strong – but his failure to call on his supporters to stop seeking conflict shows just how weak he is. He may think that war in our streets is good for his reelection chances, but that is not presidential leadership – or even basic human compassion.

NEW from @Joe Biden: "The deadly violence we saw overnight in Portland is unacceptable. Shooting in the streets of a great American city is unacceptable. I condemn this violence unequivocally... And I challenge Donald Trump to do the same."

of a great American city is unacceptable. I condemn this violence unequivocally. I condemn violence of every kind by anyone, whether on the left or the right. And I challenge Donald Trump to do the same. It does not matter if you find the political views of your opponents abhorrent, any loss of life is a tragedy. Today there is another family grieving in America, and Jill and I offer our deepest condolences.

We must not become a country at war with ourselves. A country that accepts the killing of fellow Americans who do not agree with you. A country that vows vengeance toward one another. But that is the America that President Trump wants us to be, the America he believes we are.

As a country, we must condemn the incitement of hate and resentment that led to this deadly clash. It is not a peaceful protest when you go out spoiling for a fight. What does President Trump think will happen when he continues to insist on fanning the flames of hate and division in our society and using the politics of fear to whip up his supporters? He is recklessly encouraging violence. He may believe tweeting about law and order makes him strong – but his failure to call on his supporters to stop seeking conflict shows just how weak he is. He may think that war in our streets is good for his reelection chances, but that is not presidential leadership – or even basic human compassion.

The job of a President is to lower the temperature. To bring people who disagree with one another together. To make life better for all Americans, not just those who agree with us, support us, or vote for us.

Donald Trump has been president for almost four years. The temperature in the country is washingtonpost.com/politics/secre …

After the incident in Tampa in July, two agents who were assigned to stand guard at Trump's private club in Bedminster, N.J., fell sick with coronavirus symptoms this month while the president golfed. It was his third trip there this summer. One law enforcement official who spoke on the condition of anonymity to describe internal discussions said agents on the president's detail warned colleagues on the Bedminster trip not to share information about the illness because media coverage would anger the president.

Biden could always bungle it today, but if you covered the primary, you saw him pursue the theme - "the president has stoked violence and racial tension" - that he's carrying into the fall. Weirdly he's both "on Trump's turf" and in his wheelhouse.

Makes no sense for Trump to complain about the state of the country he has presided over. He is making Biden's argument change is needed. Trump's effort to blame others only works in a vacuum. With an aggressive opponent, the argument collapses.

INBOX: @JoeBiden on Trump's presser: "Tonight, the President declined to rebuke violence. He wouldn't even repudiate one of his supporters who is charged with murder because of his attacks on others. He is too weak, too scared of the hatred he has stirred to put an end to it."

Statement by Vice President Joe Biden on President Trump's Press Conference

Yesterday, after the violence in Portland, I put out a statement decrying violence under any political banner, and challenged the President to do the same. Today, I traveled to Pittsburgh to explain how the President was making America less safe — on COVID, on the economy, on crime, on racism, on violence — and reiterated my clear message that violence is not the answer to any of these problems. And again, I urged the President to use his voice to the same end.

Tonight, the President declined to rebuke violence. He wouldn't even repudiate one of his supporters who is charged with murder because of his attacks on others. He is too weak, too scared of the hatred he has stirred to put an end to it.

So once again, I urge the President to join me in saying that while peaceful protest is a right — a necessity — violence is wrong, period. No matter who does it, no matter what political affiliation they have. Period.

If Donald Trump can't say that, then he is unfit to be President, and his preference for more violence — not less — is clear.

"I urge the President to join me in saying that while peaceful protest is a right — a necessity — violence is wrong, period. No matter who does it...If Donald Trump can't say that, then he is unfit to be President, and his preference for more violence — not less — is clear."

Statement by Vice President Joe Biden on President Trump's Press Conference

Yesterday, after the violence in Portland, I put out a statement decrying violence under any political banner, and challenged the President to do the same. Today, I traveled to Pittsburgh to explain how the President was making America less safe — on COVID, on the economy, on crime, on racism, on violence — and reiterated my clear message that violence is not the answer to any of these problems. And again, I urged the President to use his voice to the same end.

Tonight, the President declined to rebuke violence. He wouldn't even repudiate one of his supporters who is charged with murder because of his attacks on others. He is too weak, too scared of the hatred he has stirred to put an end to it.

So once again, I urge the President to join me in saying that while peaceful protest is a right — a necessity — violence is wrong, period. No matter who does it, no matter what political affiliation they have. Period.

If Donald Trump can't say that, then he is unfit to be President, and his preference for more violence — not less — is clear.

also here's Harris on how the ticket will reach out to white working class voters:

11:25

Question: How can the campaign speak to white, working-class voters, many of whom voted for Obama and then Trump?

Harris: "Those voters are the ones who are now, a number of them, we're talking about working class voters regardless of their race, unemployed."

Trump, she said, "has not even made a real attempt at helping these working people stay above water, so that they can get back on their feet when we get through this crisis."

Trump has never had majority support and does not today. So his best bet for winning is to use voter suppression to stop people from voting for Biden so the minority becomes the majority at the ballot box.

The good news is that the NBA is opening up their venues to provide spacious & safe voting locations. I believe the LA Dodgers is as well. The only people who need to curtail voting are those who don't actually believe in voting.

It is not lockdowns that are constraining the recovery—it is the collapsed consumer demand that has resulted from both the uncontrolled pandemic and the confusion over policies to address it. Americans are not willing to risk their health for nonessential activities.

Overall, we found that economic indicators performed the worst after lockdowns ended in the South. This is likely due to the short (or lack of) lockdowns in many Southern states.

SEPTEMBER 2, 2020

This office represents the interests of Jonathan DeNardo, a California Certified Cosmetologist based out of San Francisco, California.

In response to press inquiries on the matter, Mr. DeNardo can confirm that he indeed did provide professional stylist services to House Speaker Nancy Pelosi (CA) on August 31, 2020, at the "eSalon," located ■ 2288 Union Street in San Francisco, California. Mr. DeNardo, at all times, took all requisite safety measures throughout his appointment with Speaker Pelosi, including sanitation of all service areas and wearing of CDC-recommended protective equipment, and thereafter ensured the premises were similarly sanitized following Speaker Pelosi's departure.

Mr. DeNardo has worked at eSalon for approximately six (6) years and regularly communicates with the salon owner, Erica Kious. In fact, Mr. DeNardo received advance approval from Ms. Kious the day prior to the appointment during a telephone discussion on August 29, 2020 at 9:26 pm, wherein Mr. DeNardo advised Ms. Kious that he would not proceed with Speaker Pelosi's appointment without Mr. Kious' authorization. Ms. Kious took special interest in the appointment during this telephone call, wherein she made several vitriolic and incendiary comments about Speaker Pelosi and her purported responsibility for temporarily suspending operations of Ms. Kious' business, despite such orders actually being put into place not by Speaker Pelosi, but by Governor Gavin Newsome and San Francisco Mayor London Breed. Ultimately, Ms. Kious authorized Mr. DeNardo to proceed with Speaker Pelosi's appointment.

This office is in possession of photographs, videos and witness information that Ms. Kious, contrary to her prior statements to the press, has actually been operating her business during the stay-at-home orders and similar executive orders limiting in-store operations since as far back as April 2020. Ms. Kious is seen on photographs and video footage styling various clients' hair, ignoring social distancing guidelines, and not wearing protective equipment (masks), as recently as a few days prior to Speaker Pelosi's arrival at eSalon on August 31, 2020. What's more, Ms. Kious has also been actively encouraging and almost forcing stylists who operate at eSalon to violate such orders for her own financial benefit in the form of receiving lease payments.

The fact that Ms. Kious is now objecting to Speaker Pelosi's presence at eSalon, and from a simple surface-level review of Ms. Kious' political leanings, it appears Ms. Kious is furthering a set-up of Speaker Pelosi for her own vain aspirations. Mr. DeNardo's name has now been dragged through the mud for simply following Ms. Kious' recommendations; he wishes to move forward with his efforts to earn an income and asks that his privacy be respected during this time. Further inquiries may be directed to press@soleimanlaw.com.

They are definitely not easy issues, though countries with rates not that much better than the US Northeast are working through them. I just wanted to clarify that the questions I have been raising about this have been very specifically not about areas with high positivity rates.

That's very fair. We've studied school openings in other countries. The issue is that in those countries the rates are low everywhere. Here we still have high positivity in much of the country. So it's easy to have an outbreak in a school cafeteria.

If people could more easily visualize the amount of needless human suffering and economic harm that has come from the NC GOP's pointless refusal to accept federal funds to expand Medicaid there would be massive bipartisan protests in every county in the state.

Sanders also reminds voters of stakes in this election -- "It's about whether or not we maintain democracy in America."

Notes that it explains why so many Republicans also support Biden, despite much bigger differences over policy and philosophy.

FACT: Biden won't raise taxes on anyone making less than $400,000/year.

FICTION: Viral Facebook claim: #BidenHarris2020's tax plans would raise rates on a family making $75,000 or $3,000 biweekly.

From the next President of the United States @JoeBiden.

HARRIS

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

September 3, 2020

Statement by Vice President Joe Biden

If the revelations in today's Atlantic article are true, then they are yet another marker of how deeply President Trump and I disagree about the role of the President of the United States. I have long said that, as a nation, we have many obligations, but we only have one truly sacred obligation — to prepare and equip those we send into harm's way, and to care for them and their families, both while they are deployed and after they return home. That's the foundation of what Jill and I believe. It's why we've always prioritized the health and well-being of our service members, veterans, and military families. We've visited troops coming home wounded in Walter Reed. We've hosted wounded veterans in our home to share a Thanksgiving meal. And, as the proud parents of a son who served in Iraq, we've made supporting military spouses, caregivers, and children a focus of our service.

Generations of American troops have shed blood around the world in defense of our freedoms and to protect U.S. vital interests. From the frontlines of our own Revolution to Belleau Wood to the Normandy beaches to the mountains of Afghanistan, the sacrifice and bravery of our troops and their willingness to serve our nation should be honored. Duty, honor, country — those are the values that drive our service members. Those are the values that have formed the core of America's defense for centuries. And if I have the honor of serving as the next commander in chief, I will ensure that our American heroes know that I

It is the worst fallacy on here that nothing matters. Trump's approval has dipped into the 30s at times.That happened during the ACA fight, during Michael Cohen and after he ordered the attack on peaceful protesters in some polls. Things do break thru.

The Post's account actually finds an anecdote even worse than those reported by @JeffreyGoldberg washingtonpost.com/politics/trump …

> In one account, the president told senior advisers that he didn't understand why the U.S. government placed such value on finding soldiers missing in action because they had performed poorly and gotten caught and deserved what they got, according to a person familiar with the discussion.
> Trump believed people who served in the Vietnam War must be "losers" because they hadn't gotten out of it, according to a person familiar with the comments. Trump also complained bitterly to then-Chief of Staff John F. Kelly that he didn't understand why Kelly and others in the military treated McCain, who had been imprisoned and tortured during the Vietnam War, with such reverence. "Isn't he kind of a loser?" Trump asked, according to the person familiar with Trump's comments.

In some ways the obsession with "shy Trump voters" shows how cloistered elites are because there are many places in America where you would face no social stigma whatsoever for showing outward support for Trump (often the opposite, in fact).

Do I believe a graphic designer in an upscale college-educated suburb might be inclined to conceal her Trump support? I don't know. Maybe. But those aren't the places where Trump tends to beat his polls. Rather, he wins places that are already Trump-y by huge margins.

Here is @JoeBiden rightfully blasting @MayorGimenez for refusing to allow @MiamiHEAT arena for early voting site. Let @MayorGimenez know how you feel

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE
September 5, 2020

Biden for President Florida* Statement on Miami-Dade Mayor Carlos Gimenez's Refusal to Use American Airlines Arena as Early Voting Location

Today, Biden for President Florida State Director Jackie Lee released the following statement:

"Our elected officials should make it easier, not harder, to participate in our democracy. A well known landmark to the Miami-Dade community, the American Airlines Arena would have been a familiar and easily-accessible early voting location. In his decision yesterday, Mayor Gimenez is in clear coordination with Donald Trump and his plainly-stated goal of suppressing the vote. In doing so, Mayor Gimenez, a candidate for Congress and Trump loyalist who will be on the ballot, has done a disservice to one of the most American and patriotic duties that we have as Americans: the act of voting.

"But make no mistake, Floridians have already requested millions of vote-by-mail ballots, a sign that we are ready to turn out in huge numbers this fall, despite Trump and Gimenez's best efforts."

When John Sweeney won the first significantly contested fight for President of the federation since the AFL-CIO merger, one of his first acts was to dissolve the Cold War, CIA-affiliated labor "institutes" that anti-war critics had long denounced. Sweeney himself joined the Democratic Socialists of America, the home of many internal union critics of the AFL's previous foreign policy. Where US unions historically had an uneven history of support for new immigrant workers, in 1994 California unions allied with immigrant rights groups to fight the anti-immigrant Prop 187 and the AFL-CIO executive council made strong support for immigrant rights national labor policy in 2000. And a new Blue-Green Alliance of labor and environmental groups emerged supporting green jobs initiatives in multiple states, while enviro-labor coalitions started challenging US trade policy, culminating in the "Teamsters and Turtles" direct action in the streets of Seattle to challenge the World Trade Organization talks in 1999. This all gave labor stronger alliances in holding Democratic elected leaders accountable in supporting labor's political agenda.

Under Obama, Dems has estimated 58 or 59 Senators willing to support labor law reform, but maddeningly fell just short of the 60 votes needed to overcome McConnell's Republican filibuster. /12

But Obama's NLRB picks pushed remarkably strong pro-labor policy and when the GOP tried to roll back those reforms, NOT A SINGLE DEMOCRAT supported GOP efforts to do so. Similarly, not a single Democrat supported votes under Trump to attack labor rights. /13

Good AM, peeps!
I've got a 4 part Labor Day message.
1) "At 65%, Approval of Labor Unions in U.S. Remains High"

2) Why is that? Simple: because policy has tilted hard against union formation & collective bargaining. Thankfully, @EconomicPolicy has the 12-point plan to counteract this suppression, eg PRO Act, NLRA reform, more. I am SURE these ideas would help.

During the flu of 1918, Philadelphia went ahead with a war parade. It killed untold numbers of people. Historians highlight it as a tragedy. That we repeat such tragedies is a hallmark of Trump's America.

This is exactly Why we need a national plan.

Virtual school is pretty bad, but based on the fact that even European nations have failed completely to stem the spread in schools, hard to blame Trump for this one.

Though of course blaming him for all the other garbage he has done is fair.

This is such disingenuous pablum. Kamala would trust the scientists. She doesn't trust Trump. Nor do I. Nor should you. And these people are asking us to buy that they trust the scientists when their own Administration has attacked Fauci.

It's widescale gaslighting.

Defendants.

Case No. _____

COMPLAINT FOR MANDAMUS, DECLARATORY, AND INJUNCTIVE RELIEF

In 1895, Mary Fields became the first African American woman—and only the second woman in the United States—to obtain a United States Post Office Department contract to be a Star Route Carrier. The quickest applicant to hitch a team of six horses, Fields was already in her early sixties when she won the contract. For eight years, she rode the 17-mile route between Cascade, Montana, and St. Peter's Mission, braving harsh weather, wolves, and rough road conditions—while wielding a rifle and revolver to fend off bandits and thieves. Her relentless reliability soon earned her the nickname Stagecoach Mary. She never missed a day of mail delivery. When the snow was too deep for her horses, Fields snowshoed her route. She was beloved in her community: when she died in 1914, her funeral was said to be among the most well attended in Cascade's history.

Oh Sarah sanders lied because she's a liar.

> In a video she posted online that had 3.4 million views by Tuesday afternoon, Ms. Sanders claimed, "I've also sat in the room when the president had to make the most difficult calls of his presidency: when he had to let a parent know that their son had been killed in the line of duty."
> "That's a call no president wants to make," she said. "In those moments, I saw the president's heart. And I also saw his commitment to the men and women of our great military."
> In fact, that's not a call that any president ever makes.

This Maddow interview with Michael Cohen reminds me that one of the things Biden has going for him that did really hurt Hillary was that the National Enquirer, perhaps the most ubiquitous news item in America, is no longer an arm of the Trump campaign.

What Harvard researchers learned about Medicaid work requirements:

— They didn't increase employment
— People who lost Medicaid because of the requirements suffered more debt, delayed care healthaffairs.org/doi/abs/10.137 …

Second, work requirements did not increase employment over eighteen months of follow-up. Third, people in Arkansas ages 30–49 who had lost Medicaid in the prior year experienced adverse consequences: 50 percent reported serious problems paying off medical debt, 56 percent delayed care because of cost, and 64 percent delayed taking medications because of cost. These rates were significantly higher than among Arkansans who remained in Medicaid all year. Finally, awareness of the work requirements remained poor, with more than 70 percent of Arkansans unsure whether the policy was in effect.

It's been a news day, but don't forget about the DHS Whistleblower complaint outlining how @HomelandKen ordered DHS officials to change itelligence assessments for El Salvador, Honduras, and Guatemala to make it harder to get asylum from there.
intelligence.house.gov/uploadedfiles/ …

In December 2019, Mr. Murphy attended a meeting with Messrs. Cuccinelli and Glawe to discuss intelligence reports regarding conditions in Guatemala, Honduras, and El Salvador. The intelligence reports were designed to help asylum officers render better determinations regarding their legal standards. Mr. Murphy's team at DHS I&A completed the intelligence reports and he presented them to Mr. Cuccinelli in the meeting. Mr. Murphy defended the work in the reports, but Mr. Cuccinelli stated he wanted changes to the information outlining high levels of corruption, violence, and poor economic conditions in the three respective countries. Mr. Cuccinelli expressed frustration with the intelligence reports, and he accused unknown "deep state intelligence analysts" of compiling the intelligence information to undermine President Donald J. Trump's ("President Trump") policy objectives with respect to asylum.

Notwithstanding Mr. Murphy's response that the intelligence reports' assessments were consistent with past assessments made for several years, Mr. Cuccinelli ordered Messrs. Murphy and Glawe to identify the names of the "deep state" individuals who compiled the intelligence reports and to either fire or reassign them immediately.

a) vast majority of people don't pay attention and, rightly or wrongly, often give weight to revelations that appear to be secrets, like this one.

b) trump has always downplayed the virus but it is news that he had detailed information about how dangerous it was.

> Stillwater @StillwaterCol
> It's not critical information though. Literally everyone who's been paying attention already knew that Trump was lying and downplaying the threat coronavirus presented to the public. The idea that publishing it earlier would have saved lives is fanciful.

So why is Trump attacking Kamala now? She was named weeks ago. And just in the last few days he's been raging against her. Why?
I think it's because Biden/Harris brought in a record money haul in August.He knows people are excited about the ticket.Her star appeal drives him crazy

So why is Trump attacking Kamala now? She was named weeks ago. And just in the last few days he's been raging against her. Why?
I think it's because Biden/Harris brought in a record money haul in August.He knows people are excited about the ticket.Her star appeal drives him crazy
